Draft the lesson plan

Design the learning experience.

Allow your knowledge of learners and the learning intention to influence your thinking.

- 1 Clarify the objective or goal of the activity or lesson
- 2 Identify how achievement of the goal will be measured
- 3 Identify the range of teaching strategies you will use and the activity options you will offer
- 4 Consider all the materials, tools you will use yourself and make available to students
- 5 Consider how you will set up the physical and online learning environment.

Reflection questions

Once you have a refined lesson plan, ask yourself:

What specific barriers the design will address?

What parts of the design focus on learner variability (e.g the choices being offered, the design of the environment for flexibility)?

Which UDL guidelines or checkpoints are a focus in the design and why?
