

Value whānau expertise

Attitudes to allergies will differ across and within communities, families, and cultural groups.

- ✓ Involve parents and learners (when age appropriate) in all levels of policy and procedure reviews focused on allergies.
- ✓ Support parents by providing notice of upcoming food events so they can contribute.
- ✓ Listen to the concerns of parents, whānau, and caregivers – provide multiple ways of communicating with your learning community (newsletters, parents’ meetings, social media, and posters).
- ✓ Engage your learning community in building an understanding of allergies, particularly of life-threatening anaphylaxis.
- ✓ Explicitly seek out parent, whānau, and learner voice and ask, “What would help?”
- ✓ Make time for frequent and regular conversations with parents and whānau to learn more about effective safety strategies.
- ✓ Recognise the emotional impact allergies can have on families and encourage their contributions.

This information was downloaded/printed from the Ministry of Education's website "Inclusive Education". Except where otherwise noted it is Crown Copyright 2018.

Information on the Inclusive Education website is regularly updated so we recommend you check the website version of this information to ensure it remains current.
