

Plan participation for all

- Change the location of activities or adjust the type, pace, or intensity of activities during extreme weather, high pollen counts, or poor air quality.
- Provide a quiet space/activity to allow recovery from an acute episode.
- Recognise when children and young people show signs of poorly controlled asthma.
- Support easy access to medication.
- Support students and parents with classroom continuity. Keep your classroom website or blog current with what is being learned, send emails, provide reading or support material as needed.
