

A whole school approach

A positive whole-school approach including and involving the wider school community is important in shaping the values, attitudes and behaviours of the students.

The New Zealand Curriculum recognises classroom teaching is only one part of the educative process. Learning is enhanced when students are engaged at school, feel they belong, and are valued.

Tūturu supports New Zealand schools to take a whole school approach to preparing students to live in a world where alcohol and drugs exist.

A whole school approach uses multiple strategies. It incorporates the school culture, curriculum, structures and organisational models (its norms and standards), and the attitudes and values modelled within the school environment. It involves everyone in the school community working together.

This information was downloaded/printed from the Ministry of Education's website "Inclusive Education". Except where otherwise noted it is Crown Copyright 2018.

Information on the Inclusive Education website is regularly updated so we recommend you check the website version of this information to ensure it remains current.
