Support shifts in practice

Inclusive frameworks such as UDL support teachers to make the shift from traditional models of education to approaches that value and are prepared for the variability all learners bring.

Without a systematic way to interrupt current practice in the classroom the impact of these barriers is repeatedly faced by each generation without significant forward motion to break the cycle once and for all.

Work together to deliver learning support

Supporting ākonga with additional learning needs is most effective when we work together. Build learning support in your community with inclusive practices and systems that set strong foundations for more tailored and individualised support.

Adopt a framework

The inclusive practices in a school only evolve coherently by design. Universal Design for Learning is a framework that can help.

Reflection questions

Discuss the following questions with colleagues.

How is our school inclusive and welcoming for all learners and their whānau?

How are we developing a shared understanding about what inclusive education means?

Do our policies, procedures, and local curriculum reflect the diversity of our community?

How do we seek and value community input?

How well do we collect, understand and report on inclusion, progress, and achievement of all learners at our school?
