Work in partnership with families

The Board of Trustees ran “share an idea” workshops with parents about the skills and attributes they want their children to have by the time they leave the school, and how the built environment could best support this.

The school wanted everyone – students, teachers, and parents – to understand and agree how learning happens.

Use a variety of communication methods

Tips to support communication.

- ✓ Use communication options, such as email, blogs, social media, parent meetings or workshops, for two-way conversations.
- ✓ Run workshops where families and whānau can share ideas and common concerns can be addressed.
- ✓ Discuss with parents and whānau how their ideas will be incorporated into the planning.
- ✓ Record community meetings so they can be accessed at a later time.
- ✓ Plan community meetings at different times of the day.
- ✓ Provide hands-on learning sessions so parents gain an understanding of how learning works.
- ✓ Provide opportunities for parents and whānau to visit other schools or view videos of other schools in action.
- ✓ Offer captioned video and research examples, showing how the ILE includes all learners.
- ✓ Develop glossaries to support understanding of new terms and technologies you may be using.
- ✓ Consider the communication needs of your families and whānau. Provide for those who have English as a second language, are Deaf or hard of hearing, or visually impaired.
- ✓ Provide regular updates on progress through newsletters, parent meetings, and the school website.
