

Provide professional learning

Lack of information is one of the greatest barriers to successful transition.

School staff with comprehensive, up-to-date knowledge of community support options can be valuable conduits of information for the student and their family/whānau.

Areas where staff could consider developing their knowledge of community-based support options include: supported living, employment, community participation, disability support, transport and further study options.

Ministry of Education

Source:

National Transition Guidelines

<http://www.education.govt.nz/school/student-support/special-education/national-transition-guidelines-for-students-with-special-education-needs/national-transition-guidelines-for-specialist-educators-schools-and-parents/>

This information was downloaded/printed from the Ministry of Education's website "Inclusive Education". Except where otherwise noted it is Crown Copyright 2018.

Information on the Inclusive Education website is regularly updated so we recommend you check the website version of this information to ensure it remains current.

---

