Identify available support

Identify the support and services that the student is eligible for through a needs assessment. Whaikaha, the Ministry for Disabled People, maintains a list of organisations that provide needs assessment for people with a disability across Aotearoa.

If you are looking for support because you or someone you care for has a disability ... A good place to start is to get on the phone to one of our Needs Assessment Service Coordinator (NASC) organisations.

Locate tertiary student disability services

Students talk about Student Disability Services at the University of Auckland. The support discussed in the video is typical of tertiary institutions throughout Aotearoa.

Access disability support services at tertiary institutions

Many tertiary education providers have services specifically designed to support students.

If possible, visit the service and meet face-to-face with a member of the team.

Use employment services

There are services around New Zealand which provide targeted support for people with learning support needs to help them identify job opportunities.

- Workbridge – Provides a range of free employment support services for both job seekers and employers, individually tailored to suit every individual's needs.
- Direct career service – Free career, education or training advice from a career expert in your region. Provided through the Ministry of Social Development.
- Supported employment services – New Zealand Down Syndrome Association NZSDA website has a list of services that provide employment opportunities for people with Down syndrome and other disabilities.
- Gateway – Gateway programmes offer workplace learning while at secondary school.
- Emerge Aotearoa Employment Support – Emerge Aotearoa's Flexible Disability Support Service, helps young people to build a support network around the goals they want to achieve, like education or employment options.
- Workwise Employment Agency – Workwise are committed to helping people facing personal or health challenges to find the right role to suit their skills and dreams – and help them to keep it.
- YES Disability Resource Centre – This NGO is working to ensure young people with disabilities and learning differences are well represented in governance, planning and employment.
