

Use inclusive design practices

If we are critically conscious as we apply a UDL approach, it can help us to systematically remove barriers to learning for Pacific learners and increase flexible valued learning pathways.

The Action Plan for Pacific Education notes that "Pacific learners and families are diverse and have different needs and aspirations. Working reciprocally at a local level to respond to unique needs and aspirations will better ensure that all Pacific learners have great education opportunities and outcomes"

Universal Design for Learning is a people-first framework that helps us plan for diversity. UDL is applied through a thinking cycle that helps us identify and remove barriers to learning and supports the development of inclusive flexible learning environments, rich in supports and options.

This information was downloaded/printed from the Ministry of Education's website "Inclusive Education". Except where otherwise noted it is Crown Copyright 2018.

Information on the Inclusive Education website is regularly updated so we recommend you check the website version of this information to ensure it remains current.

