

Use community resources

Consider where the community could support the participation of students with disabilities through donations of time, skills, money, or equipment.

Examples of how schools use community resources

- ✓ Fundraising for a three-wheeled bicycle for a student with cerebral palsy to join her peers on bike rides
- ✓ Craft makers creating special chair cushions, stress balls and bean bags
- ✓ Community advocates working alongside students and parents
- ✓ Disability advocates giving presentations to students, families, or teachers
- ✓ Donated rewards for schools to recognise students who illustrate their school's inclusive values
