

Provide teacher release time

It was great that the principal released me, the specialist teacher and the teacher's aide to meet with Anya's team at the kindergarten. We learnt so much about what Anya could do independently from observing the education support worker with her and then from discussion with the team. We also came the next week and worked with Anya in the class so we could see all the strategies that worked. I'm not worried about her coming at all now as I see how easy it will be to have her in class.
