

Cultivate empathy and restorative practices

Empathy plays a vital role in collaboratively creating fair and inclusive learning environments.

It also plays a crucial role in restorative practices.

Consider building some of the options into your learning programme:

- Activities that invite listening to and considering perspectives other than one's own.
- Content that authentically represents a diversity of lived experiences.
- Co-create and facilitate classroom agreements.
- Facilitate restorative circles or other restorative practices.

This information was downloaded/printed from the Ministry of Education's website "Inclusive Education". Except where otherwise noted it is Crown Copyright 2018.

Information on the Inclusive Education website is regularly updated so we recommend you check the website version of this information to ensure it remains current.
